

Religious Faith Force For Right Rev. Hirtle Says

Religion must be a dynamic force for good if its mission in the world is to be fulfilled, Rev. S. M. Hirtle, minister of Strathcona Baptist Church, said Sunday when speaking over CFRN in The Bulletin's Sunday Meditations series.

Subject of Rev. Mr. Hirtle's address, of which the complete text follows, was "Some of our substitutes for religion."

Christian people should be careful not to mistake the incidental and temporary expressions of religion for religion itself, he said. Religion is not of too great regard for its casual accompaniments. It is the substance of the words of the apostle Paul, in his first letter to the Corinthians, chapters 12, 13, and 14.

The church of the days of the apostles was in the very beginning about the Holy Spirit. Paul himself reflects the church's concern in all his letters, and he was put by him to the Ephesian Christians. "Have ye received the Holy Spirit since ye believed?" The Holy Spirit with its power was earnestly sought by the Christians of that day.

Some, indeed, who claimed it were known to say "Jesus is acquired." Paul is quoted as saying that no one led by the Holy Spirit would say "Jesus is acquired." It is through the Holy Spirit that men are able to know Jesus is Lord.

THE PICTURE OF THE CORINTHIAN church in 1 Cor. 12 is one in which members, exercising various gifts which they were ascribed to the Holy Spirit, were apparently in a sorry state of jealousy and rivalry. Each one was proud of his own gift, and accounted his own gift greatest. He called his own gift Christianity, his own gift the Holy Spirit.

Many were giving themselves to emotion, even peculiar gifts in the exercise of their gifts. The Holy Spirit is not a spirit of emotion, but a spirit of reason. Paul is concerned to indicate some of the emotional principles which govern the Christian life. He says that everything he does in order, and that the Spirit is not a spirit of emotion, but a spirit of reason. He says that everything he does in order, and that the Spirit is not a spirit of emotion, but a spirit of reason.

U.S. NEWSMEN LINK EDEN VISIT IN SOLIDARITY

With London He Carries
To World Ears Democratic Message

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Newsmen pursuing over the significance of the American visit of Anthony Eden, former British foreign secretary, find it much more impressive imagination than the role of casual volunteer ambassador of Anglo-American goodwill.

There is an inclination, for example, to compare the Eden visit with the inclusion of former Governor of London, last Republican presidential nominee, in the United States delegation to the Lima Pan-
American conference.

Both carry to world ears a message of national solidarity to maintain democratic funda-mentals against every totalitarian encroachment, regardless of political and racial differences at home
in each country.

Meaning of London's presence at the Lima conference is not lost to Latin-American contemplation.

AIMED AT DICATORS

It was aimed as much at Rome as at Berlin, said one of the Washington writers mired the real purpose of the Eden visit.

Eden came and went in the wake of his break with the British empire, and the British government is not likely to be washed his keynote, not internal British friction over ways and means.

The extraordinary public interest aroused in this country must have been welcomed. Downing Street.

STIRRED IMAGINATION

He caught and stirred American imagination as perhaps no other Britisher could have done.

There is no suggestion Sir Ronald Lindsay, present British ambassador in London, had he been seen at the post beyond the normal British tenure if there should be a change, it is certain that many Americans would expect to see Eden repeated.

HALIFAX, Dec. 19.—Three hun-

the Aberdeen Highlanders of the International Brigade of Span-

Halifax Sunday in the liner Aberdeen, after a long voyage
from New York and London.

Spokenman Johnny Gates of Youngstown, O., said 275 Canadian members of the Mackenzie-Papineau fighting for freedom. "We are all no steps had been taken either by the British or Canadian govern-though the British government returned to nationals, he said.

Relations with the Mackenzie-Papineau battalion taught them some Canadian history, he said.
"In fact, I don't think any of us knew who Mackenzie or Papineau were until these fathers of Canadian democracy."

"Tony" Eden

If anyone was sceptical of the success of Anthony Eden's trip to the United States all doubts should have been destroyed by the scene that he left for home. A cheering crowd urged him to "keep it up, Tony!" This is probably the first time in many years that a visiting statesman has been crowned with the intimate immortality of a nickname by the American people. Can it be imagined that New York would call Sir John Simon "Johnnie" or Premier Chamberlain "Nervy"?

Magnificent, eloquent, sincere, Mr. Eden owes his reception both to his personality and to the wide conviction that he symbolizes the democratic spirit as opposed to the strident arrogance of the dictators.

If It Were Only True

Canadians will be interested to note that Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express sees a "great wave of prosperity" headed this way. But they will hope the Express is better at predicting the future than it is at portraying the present. When it says, "The golden grain of the prairie provinces brings a great access of prosperity to the Dominion," it may be stating what seems a reasonable supposition from the London viewpoint, but unfortunately it just isn't so.

The golden grain which grew on the prairies last summer is bringing the grower an average price of about 43 cents per bushel, and he is getting that much only because the Government has pegged the price—at a prospective cost of several million dollars to him and the other taxpayers. While this is saving the farmer from destitution, 43 cent wheat does not spell prosperity for anybody.

Inviting More Penalties

Canadians last year exported goods to the value of $213,300,000 more than the value of the goods they bought abroad. That should bring joy to the hearts of confirmed addicts to the mercantile theory. With that huge "favorable balance of trade," it is not surprising that "first" sloganists to find fault with the tariff and trade policies of the Government they thought would ruin the country.

But there is a fly in the ointment. Canadians had to pay interest and dividends amounting to $246,000,000 more than interest and dividends collected by Canadians on investments outside Canada. The interest and dividend bill swallowed up the enormous favorable trade balance, and a large slice of the $170,000,000 estimated net gain on the exchange of tourist expenditures as well.

This is the penalty, in the main, the country has to pay because its governments and municipal governments have done their borrowing so largely in other countries. And the point not to be overlooked is that they are still doing it whenever they can get a few cents more for bonds in New York than at home.

In normal times it doesn't matter much whether we borrow abroad or at home. But with everyone forgetting the 20 per cent premium our cities and provinces had to pay a few years ago on New York loans because a shift of world trade had put the Canadian dollar at a discount there—or had given the Wall Street experts a chance to gyp us? If history does not repeat, that will not be the fault of public authorities who should know better than take chances on getting stuck again in the same place.

Unemployment Insurance

The Trades and Labor Congress urges the Dominion Government to introduce an unemployment insurance scheme at the coming session of parliament, regardless of the refusal of some of the provinces to agree to let the federal authority deal with the matter.

Since the dissenting provincial administrations have neither changed their minds nor started schemes of their own, there is no moral obligation on the Dominion to defer action longer on their account; and there is very strong public reason why it should not. Delay has served no purpose but to make clearer that the country needs some plan by which regular provision will be made for the needs of those who are at times without employment.

Thus far, provincial advice has resulted in nothing but blocking Dominion action and preventing anything being done. There is no clear prospect that anything more would result if the Dominion delayed for ten years. That the provinces have any intention of taking over the unemployment problem there is nothing to suppose. That some of them will continue to refuse consent to federal initiative seems certain.

The present parliament was not elected to take instructions from the provincial authorities to the effect that unemployment insurance be left indefinitely in abeyance. It was elected to deal with that matter in a positive way, on its own responsibility. Provincial co-operation is altogether desirable. But since this has been refused in advance, parliament would be justified in proceeding in a way that would leave each provincial legislature the choice of co-operating or of taking the responsibility of denying to the people of their province the benefits of the scheme.

Giving evidence in a Los Angeles court, a gentleman named Snyder said about a month ago that because Alderman was going to shoot him, Miss Snyder said she shot at her father after he shot Alderman and while he was struggling with Miss Etting for possession of her revolver. Quite a lively party that. Four persons present and each one shooting or trying to.

German Jews paid the first $100,000,000 instalment on the $400,000,000 race tax levied on them to pay Nazis for destroying their property. An intense question is, supposing a tax was levied on the first half million Aryans named in the national register—could they put up $100,000,000 in thirty days under the same prohibitive edicts as to cashing their securities?

Current Comment

Mr. King's Policies Defended

There is a more or less concerted movement in the east inspired by powerful interests, in which the demand is made for more aggressive policies and leadership in our national affairs. The government is represented as fiddling while the country is plagued with problems that gravely affect it.

We do not think that the government is perfect and we have already said so on certain occasions. There is no argument against which a good deal of legitimate criticism cannot be directed. But is the present government at Ottawa as helpless and inactive as is being represented, or is there an answer in the reiterated charge?

It is common knowledge that there has been general public approval of many of the things that make up the government's record to date. There has been general approval, particularly from independent and impartial quarters, of what the government has done in the following matters:

Trade extension, including the two agreements with the United States, and Canada's part in facilitating the agreement between Great Britain and the United States.

The rational method of preparing for a readjustment of the relations of the dominion and the provinces.

Constructive policies on unemployment, which included encouragement to two very important industries, and the provision of aid and assistance in reviving the important building industry.

Organization of a youth training program, including vocational training.

The meeting of emergency conditions in the west this year, due to the very low price of wheat by a temporary glut of the crop.

Preparations for an extensive reform of the penal system along the progressive and hopeful lines followed in other countries.

Creation of the Trans-Canada Airways that will soon be giving a complete air service from coast to coast, unsurpassed by that of any other country.

It is generally agreed that Canadian progress in every section of the country will be materially hastened by the United States market, and there has been warm approval, even by opponents of the government, of the great help given in this matter by Great Britain and the United States through a trade agreement because of the wider significance of that rapprochement.

The appointment of the Royal Commission was very widely approved as a reasonable means of getting the views of the provinces and the public on readjustment of the federal system, and also a careful study of the whole subject, preliminary to the conference to be held later between the dominion and provinces.

The appointment of the chairman, Mr. A. S. Purvis as the employment commission, was widely commended, and it gave the government a constructive means of dealing with the problem of unemployment.

The government's policy on housing, which has resulted in the building of many new houses, and the provision of a loan to the provinces in constructing roads to mining districts, and by extending the railway system.

Since good roads are needed more than anything else to help the tourist industry from which great benefit should come, the government is co-operating in the building of roads, and in improving the highways most needed, and thus providing much employment.

The government's policy on the credit for its youth training program, in connection with which there has been a constant effort to place young people in employment. The program of reform in the army and navy, which is the national air service.

What then of the charge that the government has been doing nothing to help the unemployed? The charge also says that debt and taxation are bringing the country to ruin. "What more could they do, say to deal with unemployment, without making more money than they are doing?" The charge also says that the government is endeavoring to carry out constructive policies and to enhance the welfare of the country, and at the same time, to protect the interests of the country. This was necessary because of the heavy expenditures for relief of unemployment and of the distressed areas, and the deficit on the Canadian National Railway. And it is evident that the country is not going down to ruin when the finance minister can float a loan in New York on as favorable terms as the United States government, all things considered, including the tax-exemption of United States government bonds, and when the dividends paid by Canadian companies last year and this year have been much higher than in any previous year in the history of the dominion.

The demands for more "aggressive" leadership and policies come, of course, from those interests that want a national government to do the things that they are unwilling to have done. The railway amalgamationists, for instance, the power companies that would expropriate the hydro-electric power, and the oil companies that would expropriate the oil fields. During September, business in Canada and in the United States showed further improvement, and each of the three indices for both countries advanced. In Canada, the rise in Industrial Production, after two months of small gain, was particularly pronounced. Notable expansion occurred in textile, foodstuffs, leather and automobile industries. In the United States, Industrial Production also rose though less sharply than in previous months. There was some slackening in consumers goods industries, in part due to floods in New England, but heavy industries continued to expand operations. The Bank of Nova Scotia.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Father Chas. Coughlin, the "radio priest," has entered suit for libel against a Detroit newspaper, claiming $2,000,000 damages. Most of us would gladly be libelled for half that amount. The suit is the culmination of a series of events that started when Station WJCA at the conclusion of a broadcast attacking the Jews as troublemakers, and questioning of its Jewish policy.

The "unfortunate mistakes of fact" in the address, and refused facilities for further addresses to Father Coughlin.

Nothing daunted, the radio priest secured another station and returned to the attack, defending his previous accusations and adding a new one, namely, that the recent statement by Henry Ford denouncing the Jewish persecutions in Germany was not written by Ford, but by a Jewish rabbi. This brought vigorous denunciation from the Detroit newspapers, denunciation so severe that Father Coughlin assesses the injury to his feelings at two million dollars.

In support of his accusation, Father Coughlin charged that Jews fomented the 1917 revolution in Russia. Reading from an article by Dr. Denis F. Fox, the radio priest said that in 1918 the U.S. Secret Service reported that a revolution was brewing in Russia, and that a chief contributor to it was Jacob Schiff of New York.

Did Jews start the revolution? The revolution of 1917 was the result of the Russian Revolution. The revolution of 1917 was the result of the Russian Revolution. The revolution of 1917 was the result of the Russian Revolution.

Next, and unexpectedly, came denials from Alexander Kerensky, the first revolutionary premier of Russia, and from Leon Trotsky, in exile in Moscow. Trotsky led the Communist revolution that swept the Kerensky regime out of power. He denied all knowledge of Jacob Schiff or of the revolution. He also denied that he was a Jew.

REGISTRATION GIVING CANADA WAR SERVICES

Voluntary Enlistment Of Professional, Technical Men Seen

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—Voluntary effort on the part of Canadian organizations is resulting in a national registration of professional and technical men whose services might be placed at the country's disposal in the emergency of war. With the concurrence of the national defense department, this "census" is at present being undertaken by the Engineering Institute of Canada, the Canadian Institute of Chemistry, the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and others.

The policy is in line with that being carried out in the United Kingdom, where national registration of men and women offering themselves for voluntary service is in progress. Some time ago the Canadian Medical Association began to list among its members those who would make their services available.

Already the defense department possesses information relative to the character and capacity of various Canadian professions. Some 800 plans have been surveyed, and all fields bearing on their production and processes have been filed. Departmental agencies are studying the results of these plans to determine how they can be converted from peace time to war time work in case of necessity.

ARMS-MAKING LABOR LOCKED OVER WAGES

Agreement Not Reached In Working Hours and Conditions

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Union officials, representing more than 100,000 workers in English armaments factories, have reached a deadlock in their preliminary negotiations for increased wages and improved working conditions. At a meeting called to consider the union demands, spokesmen for the government and employers suggested revision of prevailing agreements, involving an approximate 10,000,000 (£10,000,000) annual increase in the payroll. The workers also sought a reduction of hours, consolidation of bonus into wage rates and holidays with pay on a permanent basis. There is no immediate chance of a strike vote, according to industrial observers, although they agree a crisis may develop unless an early compromise is reached.

Your Health — By Dr. Frank McCoy

Hoarseness is often produced when there is an inflammation of the larynx. This condition is called laryngitis by the physician. The patient may find the throat is sore and has a feeling of dryness, or may not have a fever. Hoarseness is a common symptom during the winter season. In these instances, the larynx or voice-box has been involved by the spreading of an acute catarrhal inflammation to it from neighboring parts.

To be hoarse means to have a rough, harsh quality of the voice. Slight hoarseness may only serve to give the speaking tone a husky effect, but if the hoarseness is more severe the voice may turn into an unpleasant croak. In some cases laryngitis causes the voice to be lost entirely, forcing the patient to whisper for a few days. This dilemma usually seems very funny to his friends, but is far from pleasant for the sufferer.

While hoarseness is generally due to inflammation it may be caused by using the voice too much. Untrained speakers who strain while speaking are very likely to develop it. Teachers, clergymen, auctioneers, singers and lecturers are especially prone to laryngitis arising from using the voice excessively.

Whenever hoarseness appears after you have been using the voice too much the best plan is to speak as little as possible. If you wish to hasten the return of the normal speaking tone, by using a cold compress around the throat. This is made by folding a small towel, dipping in cold water, wringing partially dry and applying it around the throat somewhat in the manner of a bandage. Keep it tight, but not so snug that it chokes you. It feels as though it is choking you. Over this damp cloth, use a long strip of woolen material. A strip cut from an old woolen blanket is satisfactory. This latter should be pinned with safety pins.

Dr. Frank McCoy's great book, "The Path Way to Health," gives you the mechanics of health in plain, easily understandable language. The limited supply is on hand at The Bulletin, 429-1/2 St. James Street, The Bulletin. If you are desirous to communicate direct with Dr. McCoy, readers are requested to write to him at 429-1/2 St. James Street, The Bulletin, and he will be mailed a copy of that address.

MATERIAL IS CLEANED FOR CITY RECORDS

Alfred Russell Is Secretary Of Committee On Archives

City clerk Alfred Russell, as secretary of the city permanent committee on archives, is collecting material on the city's history from files in the city hall as a preliminary step in a compilation of a complete record of the city's development. It was stated Monday by Dr. A. E. Ottewill, chairman of the committee.

The committee's second meeting will be held in January when material on highways will be collected and plans made to see further in and from maps and surveys and information from libraries and persons who have recorded their own pioneer days.

The committee was formed last autumn to edit and collect records of the city, so that a full, properly filed and compiled history of the city might be kept.

Other members of the body are City Commissioner R. J. Gibb and John Blue.

The Inquiring Reporter

Do you think dancing should be allowed to continue after the curfew hour on New Year's Eve this year?

With New Year's Eve arriving on Saturday, at 11 o'clock, and six days, The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter sought a few opinions on the time dancing should stop.

According to the Lord's Day Act, dancing in public places must cease at midnight Saturday and not resume before 8 a.m. Monday.

Below are opinions:

VAL DAVIDSON, business girl: I think dancing should be allowed to continue for an hour, at least. That surely wouldn't do any harm, just one in six years.

RUD ALLARD, salesman: Certainly, people celebrating New Year's likely will continue to dance whether there is a law against it or not. So the ban may as well be let down. Christmas should be celebrated with all the religious significance attached to it, but we should break loose on New Year's Eve.

HELEN JENKINS, stenographer: Yes, I'd like to see dancing continue until well into the morning. I don't know what, people would do when the New Year crashed in if they couldn't dance.

STAN HAZLEY, salesman: Certainly. When the balloons crash down and the music is at its loudest, would you stop the coming home? Why man, it wouldn't be dancing.

JAMES HOWEY, electrician: Oh, sure-sure-sure! Oh, sure, sure.

Campaign To Aid Jewish Children Is Being Pressed

Committee to aid Jewish children in the local Council in the drive for funds to transfer Jewish children from Germany to Palestine is being conducted in Canada. Calgary Jewish children have contributed $800 to the fund.

It is expected that the local Jewish community also will take part in the campaign, though no date has yet been set for the fund-raising drive.

It costs $500 to maintain and educate a refugee child in one of the Palestine agricultural colonies for two years, it has been estimated by officials.

Province Planning Aerial Survey For Proposed Highway

With a view to pushing as rapidly as possible the government's policy of northward development, aerial observations will be carried out at an early date to determine the proper route to follow in a highway between Grimshaw and the mouth of the Hay River, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, declared Monday.

The minister said, it was hoped to send a reconnaissance party north in time to survey the route and return before spring.

Premier William Aberhart had previously announced that the government proposed to establish a pipeline base at Willow Lake, six miles down the Saskatchewan from the mouth of the Hay River.

DAWSON CREEK MAKES LARGE WHEAT EXPORT

Over Half-Million Bushels
Shipped Out, John Blue
Reports

Dawson Creek has already shipped more than half a million bushels of wheat this season, John Blue, secretary-manager of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, said Monday on his return from a three-day trip to the Peace River country.

Together with J. V. Cook, northern Alberta manager of Confederation Life Assurance Co., Blue was guest of J. M. MacArthur, general manager of Northern Alberta Railways, on a brief inspection trip to the Peace River area conducted by the latter.

Business conditions in the northern district are encouraging, Mr. Blue said, and various signs of economic progress.

The stock train bringing the Edmonton party into the city yesterday totaled 5,885 bushels, 385 cattle, 85 sheep and 13 horses going to eastern Canada.

"Don't let Mr. Hepburn know his old-time wheat is getting shipped from Dawson Creek," Mr. Blue remarked.

The party travelled in Mr. MacArthur's private car.

Through The Mill

At 3 a.m. on the morning of December 19 the still night air at 100 street and Victoria avenue was disturbed by the sound of crashing metal when two cars collided at the intersection.

On the edge of the same crash was heard in police court Monday when the driver of one of the autos was charged with negligent driving.

He failed to report an accident, a charge which was laid against him by the court.

After hearing the evidence of the accused motorist, his passenger, and the city driver, the court found the negligent driving count, but found the accused 81 and 82 and 100 street was the other half of the traffic crash.

CHRISTMAS

On Christmas Eve, the little ones never tire of hearing from their parents about Santa Claus and what a merry night he is. It only confirms what they suspected all along about the intelligence of parents.

Crowding memories make Christmas happier. For example, if you can remember where you put the toy Aunt Sissy gave you last year in time to slip it to Cousin Joe this year, you will be a happier man.

Everyone is full of Christmas cheer, especially doormen.

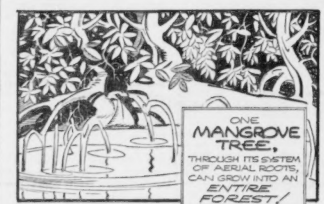

There is a wide smile on every face at the thought that this has to be the last Christmas with but one year to go.

each with Marshall scoring a point for an assist.
Elmer Kretzer led E.A.C. across with two goals and Bruce McKay, John McGill and Paul Steffen got one each.
A penalty to Bob David put E.A.C. on the spot early in the game. But David's save had no effect. On a power play, Black and Alfred in from behind the goal and widened the lead behind David. Twenty seconds later Black closed again and Canadians completed their three-goal assault as Cully took Marshall's pass. Canadians had E.A.C. on the run throughout as the Canadian passing attack paid dividends and the defense continued their useless pursuit of goals by equally useless individual attacks.

Harry Black's backhand was perfect at the opening of the first and Canadians jumped into a 2-0 lead. McKay rattled some a cheap E.A.C. goal to spite the Canadian margin. McKay's goal was secondarily pulled into the net by the Canadian goalie.
At half-time Dave Campbell scooped up Duvin's long forward pass for which later proved Canadian's winning tally.
Three down and only 15 minutes to play remaining. E.A.C. did the works for three minutes. They were better minutes for Canadians who backhanded like the jays in order to preserve their lead. Kretzer was the only marksmen on E.A.C.'s continuous power plays. He belted home two goals from scrambles in front of the net.

Detroit Red Wings Blanked by Brimsek

Tiny Thompson Overshadows Brimsek in Brilliance as Bruins Keep Pouring In But Finally Beaten

DETROIT, Dec. 19.—As Goalie Frank Brimsek marked up the fifth shutout of his last six games, Boston Bruins blanked Detroit Red Wings 2-0 last night on goals scored late in the last period of their National Hockey League match.
A crowd of 11,128 saw Boston score twice in the last 10 minutes after Tiny Thompson, former Boston goalie, was purchased by Detroit, more than matched Brimsek for brilliance.
Time after time Boston forwards sifted through the Detroit defense and ran right at Thompson, but until D.J. Clapper scooped from 10 feet out nine minutes and 44 seconds before the end, he remained unscorable.
Brimsek, Thompson's successor in the Boston net, proved equal to every emergency, although not test.

Boston's final goal came 18 seconds before the end when Manager Jack Adams, of the Red Wings, substituted Thompson from the ice just six forwards on the ice and left the goal unguarded. Millie Smith, a perfect shot, put the near center ice into the open net.
